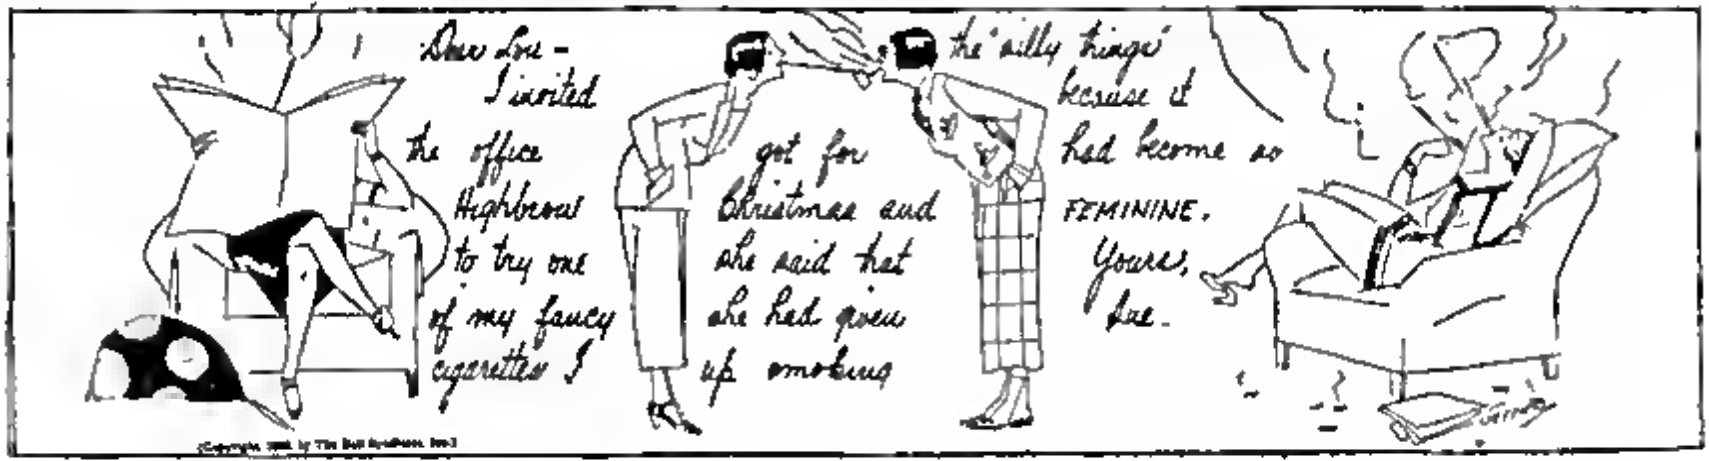
FROM SUE TO LOU—A Corn Cob Pipe Is The Thing Now— By Gettier.



Dear Lou -
I invited the office highbrow to try one of my fancy cigarettes I got for Christmas and she said that she had given up smoking the silly things because it had become so FEMININE.
Yours, Sue.

Dear Lou,
Brother Bill paid I had to register. So I went to the office and waited fo. long time in a hole full of the funniest people you ever saw. I tho't mama it so much tough for I met Betty Adams there and she told me the loveliest gossip and I gave her an earful of quak about my new Dancer frock you know, the one with the pink net. It is a darling frock and she was positively green with envy. I saw three soothern there that I knew and they told the clerk they were thirty and you can take it from me they wasn't a day under forty five. I had made up my mind to tell my real age but I guess I'm going to have to look after them it so I just got the clerk to let me whisper it in his ear. He didn't seem to mind a bit
Yours as ever
Sue

Our political Polly said that women will never achieve full equality with the men until the ladies' wear shops offer two skirts with each ensemble.
Yours,
Sue.
